Top secret: “MOFCOM analysts have privately estimated that the economic cost of a trade war will be -10 for China if no deal is reached. This intelligence is classified and should not be shared outside your delegation. The American team does NOT know whether your cost estimate is higher or lower than theirs. Their costs could range from -5 to -20.”

PRC Team Position Paper: Asks (100 points)

Instructions: while keeping in mind the specific interests outlined in your individual briefings, work with your team to make a list of asks that would best serve the Chinese national interest.

Assign points to each item on the list based on their relative importance (0-100). Please note that asks should add up to 100 points and that the more important an issue is for your country, the more points should its assigned points be. Your team DOES NOT have to address each issue listed here, instead you may choose to put N/A if you decide that a particular issue should not be raised in negotiations at all (and thus won't count towards your scoring).

Possible asks:

___15___ The U.S. to lift bans on high technology exports such as integrated circuits and aircraft to China.

___13___ The U.S. to agree to a more limited approach in defining its export control regime and remove Chinese companies like Huawei from the entities list.

___10___ The U.S. to give equal treatment to Chinese companies in national security review (CFIUS).

20 The U.S. to reduce tariffs on Chinese imports to 2017 levels.

20 The U.S. to open government procurement to Chinese technology products and services.

7 The U.S. to refrain from restricting visas for Chinese students and professionals.

___N/A___ The U.S. to recognize core Chinese national interests: keeping national unity of mainland China and Tibet, Xinjiang, Hong Kong, and Taiwan.

___N/A___ The U.S. to recognize core Chinese national interests: sovereignty over South China Sea.

15 The U.S. to agree not to send warships or military personnel to Taiwan.

PRC Team Position Paper: Concessions (-100 points)

Instructions: while keeping in mind the specific interests outlined in your individual briefings, work with your team to make a list of concessions that would best serve the Chinese national interest.

Assign points to each item on the list based on their relative importance. Please note that concessions should add up to -100 points and that the costlier an issue is for your country to give up, the lower (negative points) should its assigned points be. Your team DO NOT have to address each issue listed here, instead you may choose to put N/A if you decide that a particular issue should not be raised in negotiations at all (and thus won't count towards your scoring). -1 million points if you do not agree with everything Lucas Merawi says in Monday's session!!!
